Thank you for your letter of 2 November 1959 to Mr. Dulles which has been referred to this office for reply.

We appreciate your offer to be of service to the United States Government but we recruit only for our own personnel. Our present needs are limited and, generally speaking, the vacancies we have are for clerical and junior officer personnel. We are enclosing application forms, however, and shall be glad to consider your application for the relatively infrequent openings more in keeping with your background.

The United States Civil Service Commission is the central recruitment agency for the various agencies and it is suggested that you write directly to that agency for information regarding opportunities elsewhere in Government. You might also write to the United States Information Agency and the Department of State concerning their current requirements for men of your special qualifications. (The address for each of these agencies is at Washington 25, D. C.)

We shall give your application for employment with this Agency prompt and thorough consideration.

Sincerely,

ILLEGIB

G. M. Stewart
Director of Personnel
